

What's the point of having a democracy with fairness for all if we don't actually exercise and expect fairness, especially from those in power?